

MONSIGNOR JOHN HAWES

John Cyril Hawes (1876—1956) was an Englishman who studied architecture in London. He was ordained to the Anglican priesthood in 1903 and in 1908 went to work in the Bahamas to rebuild churches after a hurricane had destroyed them, as well as to minister to the people. Whilst there he converted to Catholicism and in 1912 travelled to Rome to study for the Catholic Priesthood. During his time in Rome he met the Bishop of Geraldton, Bishop Kelly, who invited him to come to Western Australia after his ordination to work as a priest and design a Cathedral for the newly created Diocese.

He arrived in 1915 and soon after arrival was asked to serve in several outback parishes. During his relatively short time in the Geraldton Diocese (1915-1939), as well as working as a priest, he designed 44 buildings, 29 of which were built. In many cases he was not only the architect but also the builder, craftsman and fundraiser for the buildings. In 1937 he was given the title of Monsignor.

In 1939 he returned to the Bahamas where he was responsible for many significant buildings, although his dream was to live out his final years as a hermit on Cat Island. Hawes is remembered not only as an architect and priest. He was also a talented artist and craftsman of the Arts and Crafts Style, a horseman, wood turner, cabinet maker and builder. As well as leaving his mark on the Midwest and Gascoyne regions of Western Australia, he was also responsible for the design and construction of buildings in England, the Bahamas & the US.
